- How do we encourage families to access some of the resources and services provided by DD or other orgs?
 - Virtual pros and cons

 - Still need internet access and computer
 - How do we share this info so that it is for all families – inclusive?
 - Window of opportunity – use specific questions to bring in specific, immediately relevant resources
 - More action oriented
 - Start with earning the families trust –
 - Attending as a group
 - Being straightforward – meeting families where they are at

EBB & FLOW is a group of advocates in partnership with black and brown families to collaboratively enhance voices, access, equity, and inclusion in supports and services available to the disability community. We embrace all in this brave space designed to tackle challenging issues of intersectionality, personal and systemic biases, and other barriers, while building community. We seek to listen to stories that will inform our actions and transform systems.

- Being intentional about who we are talking to
- Be specific about the information we want to share
